

Supporting the language(s) of schooling - The ROADMAP

ECML Training and Consultancy in Aarhus, Denmark

26 – 27 November 2025

Supporting students to master the language(s) of schooling is key for their successful learning. The ROADMAP team offers activities based on the whole-school approach to help participants understand the various dimensions connected to the language development of all students. The aim is to support academic development in all school subjects and to set up a school development plan.

ECML experts for the event

Nermina Wikström, Sweden

Nermina Wikström works as Director of Education at Swedish National Agency for Education. She has extensive knowledge of language rights issues of minorities, policy-based decision making as well as of curriculum and syllabus design, development and nationwide implementation. Her work includes plurilingual and intercultural education, mother tongue, minority and heritage languages within the compulsory education. Her international experience also includes cross-national cooperation on curriculum and indigenous education issues.

Selin Öndül, Switzerland

Selin Öndül works as a specialist in Migration & School at the School Authority of the City of Zurich. She has long years of work experience at the cross-section of compulsory schools and politics. She has led and worked on different projects in the area of educational equity. Her current foci are the promotion of school language(s), collaboration between first-, second language and classroom teachers as well as support and integration of asylum seekers in the school system.
